

Force (The Spirit Trilogy Book 2)

Leah begins to help the police, using her psychic powers, to solve cases that have baffled them, and on her first day they find out that the inspector was doing his utmost to see that Maggie paid for Beckys death; Leahs greatest wish. With their maker entombed, they start to settle down to a trouble-free life; or so they thought. Strange things happen and the feelings of dread engulf them again. Not one of them saw the nightmares that would fill their lives from then on, all the while running the funeral business with the compassion and precision they were well respected for. This book contains descriptions of scene of an explicit sexual nature which are suitable for adults only. The contents are not suitable for readers under the age of eighteen years of age. Travelling the world and hunting out antiques has given Andrew Harding a broad insight into the unravelling of the human mind. His fascination with the paranormal, supernatural and also crime has inspired him to cross boundaries and write this trilogy. The people who have crossed his path have covered such a broad spectrum that hes realised that anything is possible, and that there are barriers to the depravity that could be hidden beneath the surface.
