

Drunk on You

Justin Morgan would happily drown the pain of his injured leg-and the guilt he brought back from Afghanistan-in bourbon. Except, there wont be any booze if he doesnt rescue his familys century-old distillery from financial ruin. The problem? Allie McGrath-youngest daughter of the distillers co-owners, and the one woman he cant have. Allie has been in love with Justin since...well, shes always been in love with him. Now hes home, broken up over the death of her brother, and he needs help. She can fix the distillery-shes sure of it-but no ones taking her or her sweet new idea seriously. Convincing Justin is her only hope. Allie is more tempting than Justin expected, threatening a promise he swore hed never break. If he cant keep their attraction under control, theres a solid chance theyll send the whole enterprise crumbling to the ground...if he doesnt crash and burn first.
